APPEALS FOR HEART BALM

Alleged Faithless Lover Sued For Breach of Promise

BERTHA KYLER THE PLAINTIFF

Everett Gulich, of Altoona, the man who will have to answer to the charge of having toyed with the affections of the Clearfield maiden.

Bertha Kyler, of Clearfield, through her attorney Thursday filed a breach of promise suit in the prothonotary's office in Blair county, against E. B. Gulich, to recover damages to the amount of $10,000.

The plaintiff in her statement sets forth that in 1908 she was a single woman of marriageable age and capable of contracting to marry; that said E. B. Gulich was then a single man and capable of contracting to marry. That some time prior to the year aforesaid, the plaintiff and the defendant became acquainted and defendant sought to keep company of the plaintiff; that in pursuance of their mutual affection for each other, in the year 1908, the defendant proposed marriage to the plaintiff and was accepted by her and a contract to marry was entered into by said parties in the county of Clearfield, Pennsylvania.

He Married Another.

The plaintiff further avers the contract to marry was frequently renewed and repeated and their vows mutually pledged to each other from time to time until the year 1913 and said contract to marry was evidenced and bound by gifts; that in the year 1913, the said defendant repudiating his promise of marriage, entered into marriage with another woman. That by reason of the breach, the plaintiff has suffered large and substantial damages in money, her feelings injured and she has been humiliated before her neighbors, friends and acquaintances, therefore she brings the suit to recover the damages which she has received.

A Resident of Shawville.

The above rather interesting information is taken from the Altoona Tribune of Friday. Miss Kyler, the fair prosecutor in the above case, is the daughter of Ellis Kyler, who resides in Shawville. Miss Kyler spent the past winter in Canada.

The trial of the case and its probable result, will be awaited with considerable interest, not to say curiosity, by her Clearfield friends. Mr. Gulich is a resident of Altoona, and is reported to be quite wealthy. At one time, it is alleged by the plaintiff, he was very attentive to her and paid her frequent visits at her home.

SOPHOMORE "FUN"

Indulge in a Prank That May Get Them Into Trouble.

The Freshman class of the High school held a class party in the High school building Friday evening, but the pleasure of the event was seriously interfered with by the members of the Sophomore class. In order to spoil the pleasure of the party the Sophomores issued circulars purporting to come from the Freshman class announcing that the Freshmen would entertain all school children with a musical program and serve them with refreshments.

The Freshmen gathered in the building but were unable to enjoy the party as the crowd the Sophomores had invited persisted in entering the building. Finally the children, discovering that there was no treat for them, went home. The Sophomores had resigned the floor, so that the Freshmen were unable to dance, but they enjoyed a social chat for several hours.

It is understood that the faculty will investigate the matter and that the Sophomores will be hauled over the coals for their ungentlemanly conduct.

Saturday Half Holiday.

The Saturday half holiday went into effect in the court house today. Some of the officials will remain in the offices all day but the employees will take a rest.

The Weather.

Fair and warmer, moderate north to west winds.

LINER SIBERIA HAS FOUNDERED

Fears For Safety of The Pacific Mail Steamship

HAD 800 CABIN PASSENGERS

Pirates May Have Attacked Her. "S O S" Signals of Steamship Picked Up by a Japanese Cruiser and by Great Northern Liner Minnesota. Scene of the Stranding About Six Miles Off the Coast of Formosa.

Tokyo, May 2.—Grave fears are felt for the Pacific Mail steamship Siberia, which, according to one report, has foundered off the island of Formosa.

The first information received here said that the Siberia was aground. She had been sending out distress signals. The Siberia's wireless calls were picked up by a United States warship, a Japanese and a British cruiser. The signals were so indistinct that the exact location of the distressed steamship was made out with difficulty.

From the computations and judging from the position she ought to be in the Siberia when first heard from was in latitude 22.40, longitude 121.10. This is to the east of the island of Formosa and about six miles off Taio.

The Siberia has seventy-one first class passengers, fifty in the second cabin and 400 in the steerage. She carries a crew of 282 men. Among the passengers is Mrs. Francis Burton Harrison, wife of the governor general of the Philippines.

As soon as the signals of distress were received the warships went after the distressed vessel. The fact that the wireless signals ceased altogether gave rise to fears that she had foundered.

According to one report, Chinese pirates might have been concerned in the disaster that overcame the big liner. The coast off which she met with the natives are hostile.

The following dispatch was made public by the Japanese navy department:

"The governor general of Formosa cables that a Japanese cruiser, on her way to the Okinawa Islands, off the island of Kishibu, reports that the Pacific Mail steamer Siberia met disaster this morning in longitude 121.10 east, latitude 22.40 north. She sent repeated signals of distress, which finally became indistinct. No details of the disaster are known. The Kanto Maru has been ordered to the scene."

Mrs. Harrison was on her way back to Manila. She had come as far as Japan with her father, who had been visiting Governor Harrison in the Philippines. Mrs. Harrison boarded the steamship at Yokohama.

On her way out the Siberia makes the run direct from Nagasaki to Manila. This course takes her to the eastward of the island of Formosa. On her return she goes by way of Hongkong and Shanghai. This course takes her through the Formosa strait, to the westward of the island.

It was reported, but unconfirmed, that a message from Captain Zeeder of the Siberia had been received at Taiofu, Formosa, reporting that the vessel had been beached on an island but a short distance from the mainland. This message did not mention any immediate danger to passengers, it is declared.

WILL NOT STRIKE

Pennsy Employees at Altoona Will Remain at Work.

At noon Thursday representatives of the Brotherhood of Federated Railway Employees appeared at the various shop gates of the Pennsylvania Railroad company at Altoona, and made speeches to the men, declaring a strike was in force and urged them to join. Their efforts proved a failure and at 1 o'clock, after the men returned to work, they retired without securing a single man to strike.

In a statement made by General Superintendent G. W. Creighton he denied the allegations made by officers of the Federated Union that General Manager Long had made concessions to them and declared the company intended to deal with employees having grievances in the same manner as had been their custom in the past.

Improving His Premises.

Contractor Ferguson has just completed the construction of a concrete sidewalk and guard wall in front of A. J. Musser's property on Pine street. Mr. Musser is also having his house painted, setting an example to other property owners on the street.

HOPE OF PEACE RAPIDLY DYING

Rush to Make Big Fund Available For Immediate Use.

AWAITING CARRANZA'S REPLY

Said to Be Flat Refusal to Stop War on Huerta—A. B. C. Envoys Continue Conference, but Refuse to Make Public Result of Negotiations—Refugees Safe.

Washington, May 2.—Thirty-six American refugees were released yesterday from quarantine near New Orleans, and 700 more expect to be set from the detention camp to their homes within forty-eight hours.

Almost the last of the American sailors at Vera Cruz returned to their vessels, leaving General Funston and the army in complete control. Mexicans say they are enjoying unprecedented prosperity and liberty under the American regime.

The A. B. C. peace envoys continued their conferences. They now face the probability of being forced to eliminate General Carranza as a factor in the negotiations, as his only reply to their request for an armistice has been to order his field generals to hurry the attack upon Saltillo.

General Villa is preparing to throw 15,000 men against the federalists at Saltillo within a few days. Fighting is also continuing at Tampico, Mazatlan and Acapulco.

A joint resolution has been introduced in the house at President Wilson's request, making immediately available the $101,000,000 provided for in the army appropriation bill.

Three trainloads of American refugees from Mexico City were reported safe a few hours' ride from Puerto Mexico.

Permanent Peace Not Expected.

That permanent peace with Mexico is not expected to result from the present mediation negotiations was indicated by the request that the appropriations be made immediately available.

The bill now in the hands of the president carries appropriations available after June 1. A joint resolution has been introduced by Representative Chairman Hay of the house military affairs committee making the money immediately available.

A similar rider is expected to be attached to the naval appropriation bill now under consideration in congress. This action is in line with all the precautions that are being taken by this government.

Nothing is to be left undone to have the armed forces in a state of complete preparedness if the mediators finally report they cannot bring about an agreement.

It is admitted that were the only questions in dispute those between the United States and Huerta at the time the big battleship fleet was ordered south a speedy settlement could be reached. Huerta has made it plain in unofficial negotiations with representatives of the envoys that he is willing to salute the flag unconditionally if the United States forces are withdrawn from Vera Cruz. He has been told, however, that things have gone too far for that and that now the United States insists he must eliminate himself.

The mediators were waiting for Carranza's complete reply to their request that he agree to a cessation of hostilities pending negotiations on a broad plane to settle all of Mexico's troubles.

Carranza's Reply Flat Refusal. This answer is understood unofficially to be a flat refusal, but the mediators are hopeful that Carranza may outline some conditions which they can seize on to reopen the matter.

They were in a long session discussing this point, but no information was forthcoming regarding the outcome. During the negotiations the mediators sent for Secretary Bryan and told him that Huerta had agreed to a cessation of all hostilities between his forces and those of the United States pending the outcome of the mediation negotiations. Bryan repeated his former assurances that the United States took it for granted that there would be no hostilities during the period, but would go no further.

He refused point blank to comment on the attitude of the Constitutionalists or to indicate whether he believed their refusal to cease fighting would seriously menace the peace prospect. I dissenting, however, that he did not look for very speedy action was his reply to a question whether he has now definitely abandoned his proposed vacation trip to Florida. He said: "Oh, that is all off. I am now hoping that I may be able to get away for a few days late in the summer."

Candidate for Judge.

Clement Dale, Esq., of Bellefonte, well known in Clearfield, has announced his candidacy for judge of the Center county courts. The election will be held next year.

PRISONERS, FREE, MAY FIGHT U. S.

Huerta In Person Opens Jail Doors In Mexico City.

FREE LIQUOR NERVES MEN.

No Word From Physician, Friend of Bryan, Held as Spy by Dictator. Reports That Subjects Are Gradually Turning Against the Dictator—Said to Be Ready For Flight.

Vera Cruz, May 2.—In a desperate effort to unite all political factions and organize his defenses to resist the United States, Dictator Huerta has released all political prisoners in the City of Mexico, according to advices received here. The men set at liberty include several congressmen who opposed the dictator.

Huerta addressed the prisoners in person, according to the reports here, declaring, "We are now brothers, facing the common enemy, the American invaders."

At the conclusion of Huerta's speech the freed men were furnished with funds and sent to all parts of Mexico to spread the propaganda of the dictator.

Huerta has seized the saloons in the capital in order that he may furnish his soldiers with a liberal supply of liquor in the hope of keeping them loyal to him, according to a message received by the captain of the French cruiser Conde. Earlier reports that the people of the capital were turning against the dictator are also borne out in this message, which declares Huerta is believed to have made all arrangements for flight in case of an outbreak.

SUBSCRIPTIONS ASKED

Cards Sent Out Requesting Money for Hospital.

On Monday next subscription cards will be sent out throughout town and county asking the charitable citizens to subscribe to a fund for paying off the hospital debt. There remains about $6,000 yet to be collected. When this amount is collected A. W. Lee will place at the disposal of the directors $5,000 a year for five years, to be used in their judgment to meet the most required needs of the hospital.

This is a splendid offer and will be a boon to the hospital. All that is asked in return for this gift is that the charitable people will pay off the debt of the institution. It is hoped that everyone will respond promptly with these cards, and thus relieve the Board of a great deal of work. The payment of this debt will insure us the blessing of a hospital for years to come.

PASTOR FOR BIGLER

Successor to Rev. E. L. Kennedy Has Been Secured.

Rev. Dr. E. C. Reeve has returned from Princeton university, where he had spent several days in search of a minister to fill the vacancy in the Bigler charge. Dr. Reeve finally found in Rev. J. A. Oldland the man whom the doctor thinks will fill the bill satisfactorily.

Rev. Oldland will take charge of his new field May 24. His field embraces Boardman, Bigler, Pine Grove and Bethel.

May Day Fete.

Lower Witmer park was filled with children and older people today to witness the May Day fete held by the Junior Chautauqua and Woman's club. A very delightful time was had by all.

Funeral of Mrs. Barrett.

The funeral of Mrs. Sophie DeVincent Barrett was held from her home on Cherry street this afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. John, of St. Andrew's Episcopal church officiated. Interment in Hillcrest cemetery.

Mrs. H. L. Forcey's Funeral.

The funeral of Mrs. Harry L. Forcey was held this morning at 10.30 from the residence. Interment in Hillcrest cemetery.

CARRANZA TIES UP PEACE PLANS

The Rebel Chieftain Prepares to Attack Huerta's Forces

IS MARCHING ON SALTILLO

Neither Villa Nor Carranza is Paying Any Attention to Request That Hostilities Cease While Negotiations Looking to Ending Mexico's Troubles Are in Progress—Dr. Ryan Freed.

Washington, May 2.—The state department and the A. B. C. mediators have been officially informed that the Constitutionalists, instead of agreeing to rest on their arms, pending negotiations, are marching on Tampico with artillery, and are about to begin an active campaign against territory still under control of Huerta from Monterey to Mexico City. The first point of attack will be Saltillo, where Huerta is massing troops. This appears to be Carranza's dramatic reply to the request that he agree to mediation for the pacification of Mexico. The result is that the progress of efforts to obtain peace being made by the A. B. C. mediators has been abruptly arrested.

Bryan Not Discouraged.

The state department, however, is not discouraged, and the belief is hourly becoming stronger that President Wilson will not order General Funston to advance against Mexico City, that he will place no time limit either on Huerta or mediation, and that he will let watchful waiting be continued till one of the warring factions quits from sheer fatigue of fighting.

Administration officials have seized upon the refusal of Carranza to agree to an armistice as a possible solution of the problem. They are quietly sitting on the fence watching the Villa movement of his troops toward Mexico City, and devoutly hoping he will crush Huerta, and the Wilson administration's controversy with Huerta at one and the same time. In this event Wilson's Mexican difficulties will vanish in thin air.

Gen. Maas Halted.

Mexico City, May 2.—The work of the mediators has had one practical result, namely, the understanding by the American and Mexican governments for a suspension of hostilities during the negotiations. As a result the column under General Maas has not been ordered to start any movement. This column is at Saltillo, where Maas has been reinforced by volunteers. He had notified the war department that he would occupy and hold some point on American territory, until Vera Cruz was evacuated, but this movement will now be postponed indefinitely.

The council of ministers yesterday discussed the question of sending to Washington a diplomatic mission whose duty it will be to give the mediators information as will enable them to base their decision on a full knowledge of the facts. It is probable this commission will be headed by Senator Ruiz, who conducted the negotiations growing out of the Tampico incident.

Dr. Ryan Released.

Vera Cruz, May 2.—It is officially announced from the federal government at Mexico City that Dr. Edward Ryan, of Scranton, Penna., who was reported under sentence of death as a spy in Zacatecas, has been released and is now on the way to Mexico City. Huerta, it was officially stated, has agreed to insure him safe passage to Vera Cruz. This is the result of a very urgent telegram sent direct to Huerta Thursday evening by Consul Canada, setting forth the facts and assuring Huerta an investigation would prove the American innocent of the charge brought against him.

The Circus is Coming.

Clearfield will have a three-ring circus on Friday, May 15, when Jones Bros. and Wilson's trained animals show will be here.

Arm Cut Off by Engine.

Daniel Bryan, a B. R. P. hostler, at DuBois, lost an arm Friday by being thrown under an engine in the yards in that place.

W. M. Elsenhart, M. C. Dinger and H. C. Shugart, of Morrisdale, were at the county seat yesterday.

DUBOIS SHOWS LARGE GAINS

The Population Has Increased by 1,384 Since 1910

ESTIMATE OF CENSUS BUREAU

Pennsylvania Residents Now Number 2,248,967. An increase of 555,855—Altoona and Johnstown Cities With Remarkable Rapidly. Steel Town on the Conemaugh River Far in Lead.

Pennsylvania's population, it is estimated by the census bureau, will reach 2,248,967 in July this year, an increase in four years of 555,855. The census of the state in 1910 was 1,693,111.

Pennsylvania ranks second in population and holds this place in its increase in four years.

New York, the largest state in the Union in population, had 9,124,000 persons in 1910, as against an estimated population of 9,595,701 this year, or an increase of 755,147.

DuBois Takes Big Jump.

Among the cities of more than 5,000 population which have shown satisfactory increases of population since the census of 1910 is DuBois. In 1910 the population of DuBois was 12,623. The census bureau estimates the population of DuBois in 1914 to be 14,007, an increase of 1,384 in the past three years.

The increases in other cities in this part of the state are: Altoona, 4,428. Johnstown, 9,166. Williamsport, 1,321.

The gain in DuBois is 63 greater than in Williamsport.

The population of Clearfield, according to the 1910 census, was 6,000, and it is believed that at present the population exceeds 8,000.

MISS SHIELDS SANG

Enlivened the Morris Township N. S. Commencement.

Miss Bertha Shields, of Clearfield, sang several solos at the Morris township High school commencement at Morrisdale Thursday. She was accompanied by Miss Elizabeth Pilkington, of Curwensville.

During the exercises Prof. and Mrs. W. W. Eisenhart, were presented with pretty fraternity pins by the High school class. Prof. Eisenhart is a candidate for county superintendent.

Bid on State Road.

B. H. Coryell, a Williamsport paving contractor, was in town today and looked over the ground on South Second street, which will be paved by the state and borough this year. Mr. Coryell will bid on the work, and on that which will be done by Curwensville also. The Clearfield bids will go to the state highway department next Tuesday.

Selfishness of Autoists.

A gentleman who had business in Hyde City walked up to that place and returned yesterday. He says he was passed by three automobiles with plenty of room for a passenger, but none of the motorists invited him to ride. Such selfishness sure is enough to cause one's corns to ache.

Who Interfered?

County Commissioner M. Richards refused to hand out ten cents to "save the life" of a habitual lunatic yesterday, and is now wondering whether some other person went to the fellow's rescue or whether the bum was only pretending to be on the verge of dissolution.

Candidate Withdraws.

Rev. John Hewitt, of Bellefonte, who had announced his candidacy for congress on the Democratic ticket in this district, has withdrawn from the race.

Hobson at Patton.

Captain Richmond P. Hobson of Star rimac and Kistner fame, will deliver a lecture in the Methodist church at Patton on Saturday night, May 9.

W. C. Pentz, Esq., of DuBois, came over the hill to inhale the wholesome air of Clearfield yesterday.

WHY?

Why isn't the street sprinkler used on the pavements?

Good evening! Certainly you remember when the Queen of the May ruled her subjects, but that was before part of the North pole was moved in this direction.

THE CIVIC CLUB.

Clearfield owes much to the ladies comprising the Civic club, and there is no one who underestimates the importance of the organization in the material life of the town. In the first place, it must be known that the Civic club is self-supporting, and all the work the club has done toward improving conditions in Clearfield has been accomplished without the assistance of the borough council or any other municipal body. Such money as the club has expended has been gathered by the ladies in holding fairs, festivals and the like.

The Civic club has charge of the lawn on the north side of the county jail and the club has greatly improved conditions in that locality. In addition to placing a flower bed in the lawn the club was instrumental in having the drinking fountain established near the bridge, a great convenience to teamsters. Some years ago the Civic club purchased a street sprinkler, and the ladies would like to know where that sprinkler is at the present time as it has not been used on the streets for a year or more. Borough council's attention is called to this failure to employ the sprinkler to lay the dust on the paved streets.

The Civic club should not only be commended for the excellent work it has done in the past, but it should be encouraged to continue its efforts to make Clearfield a clean and beautiful town. If council were to appropriate the money necessary to the performance of the work the Civic club would take good care of the parks and otherwise set an example in municipal improvement that would eventually induce the citizens to give more attention to making Clearfield a more beautiful and healthful town.

THE HOSPITAL DEBT.

Cards calling upon the citizens of Clearfield borough and Clearfield county to contribute toward the liquidation of the $11,000 debt now troubling the Clearfield hospital are being sent out. It is hoped by the board of directors of the hospital that there will be a liberal and prompt response to this appeal for funds, as the board is anxious to have the hospital debt cancelled in order that it may take advantage of the generous offer of Asbury W. Lee to donate five thousand dollars per annum for a period of five years toward the maintenance of the hospital.

It is true that Clearfield people have been asked quite frequently in the past to contribute to the support of charitable and semi-charitable institutions in town and county, but the hospital is of such great benefit to the community that when it asks the public to aid it in maintaining its high standard of efficiency the response should be generous. The hospital cares for the sick and injured of the county, and any financial embarrassment which is felt by the institution serves to lessen its usefulness. Help extended to the hospital is help given to suffering humanity.

There is a suspicion that some of the barkeepers of this town are not obeying Judge Bell's liquor selling regulations, especially that item relating to the selling of intoxicating drinks to minors.

The war in Mexico is bad enough, but it cannot touch in fierceness the battle being waged by the Democratic factions in this state.

SUNDAY SCHOOL.

Lesson V.—Second Quarter, For May 3, 1914.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, Luke xv, 11-24. Memory Verses, 17-19—Golden Text, Luke xv, 18—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

In this third part of the parable which is spoken of in verse three as "this parable," including the three stories of the lost sheep, the lost coin and the lost son, we have beautifully set forth the heart of God the Father, as no one but the Son of God could tell it out, for "no man knoweth the Son but the Father, neither knoweth any man the Father save the Son, and he to whomsoever the Son will reveal him" (Matt. xi, 27). We are told in many places of the love of the Father, as in John iii, 16, 1 John iv, 8, 16; and of the love of the Son, as in Gal. ii, 20, Eph. v, 25. The love of the Spirit is mentioned in Rom. xv, 30. The love of God and His unwillingness that any should perish are two of the great foundation truths of all Scripture, and are perhaps nowhere more simply told than in this threefold parable. Man's helplessness, his deadness and his selfishness and enmity to God are also here set forth.

It may be difficult to see quite clearly whom the elder brother represents, but we would not need to seek far or long to find some really saved people who act a good deal like the elder brother when sinners who have wandered very far away are welcomed home.

I have read a discourse upon this chapter by a great Bible student in which he thinks that both the elder brother and the ninety-nine just persons represent the angels who never sinned. There seem to me to be many difficulties in this interpretation. We are quite safe in dwelling upon the love of God in seeking and welcoming home the lost ones, and we shall understand many things better when the intelligence symbolized by the many eyes of the cherubim shall be ours.

How many seem to think that they have a right to demand of God a portion of this world's goods and to do as they please with it! Such self will is the essence of sin and shows the heart of man toward God, and yet God often permits it. Every sinner is in the far country, far away from God, without God and without hope, living unto himself, his life all dark and void and nothing glorifying to God in it (Gen. i, 2; Dan. v, 23). The ungodly are compared to dogs and swine by our Lord Himself and also by the Spirit through Peter (Matt. vii, 6; II Pet. ii, 22). The comparison would not be at all flattering to some respectable sinners, but the Bible never says nice things about the enemies of God. There are many ways of wasting one's substance, and when we read that he had spent all we think of the sick woman who spent all that she had upon physicians and was nothing bettered, but rather grew worse (Mark v, 25).

It was a good thing for this lost son that he became so desperately in want that he would fain have eaten swine's food, and it was a good thing for him that no man gave unto him. Possibly some "down and out" people might come to themselves sooner if no one helped them to be comparatively comfortable in their low down estate.

It is a great thing when one is led to see himself in his true light before God, when his heart cry is, "God be merciful to me, a sinner." It is a good experience for a saved sinner when he is led to say as Job did, "I abhor myself" (Job xiii, 6). Whatever leads us to see more of God and His goodness is a helpful experience. It was good for this man when he began to think about his father and the abundance there which he might be enjoying. It was well when he determined to return to his father; confess his sin and ask to be given a servant's place, but it was better when he actually arose and came to his father.

See the father's heart in verse 20. "When he was yet a great way off his father saw him and had compassion and ran and fell on his neck and kissed him." No upbraiding, not a word of faultfinding, just a loving welcome home and a kiss of reconciliation. Do we know God as such a Father, and are we ready to tell lost ones of such a welcome awaiting them if they will turn with true penitence to Him? The son said part only of what he had intended to say, but was not allowed to finish it. Instead of the servant's place it is the best robe, a ring on his hand, shoes on his feet and a feast of welcome, because the lost one had come home. If we really believed that there was such a reception awaiting penitent sinners, how could we help urging them to come home?

It is said that they began to be merry—salvation is only the beginning of joy that knows no end. Consider the elder brother as representing one who has from his youth known the way of life, a child of godly parents and truly saved, having at some time not definitely known to himself accepted the Lord Jesus. He never fell into bad habits, but was always known as a good sample of a consistent Christian, though by no means a happy one. He did not know his father as he might have done and had no use for returning prodigals. Did you never see such a one in the glasses or elsewhere?

CORN CONTEST

The County National Bank of Clearfield, Pennsylvania

For the purpose of encouraging the improvement of farm products and the soil on which they are grown this bank offers for the year 1914, the following prizes, to wit:

For the best acre of corn grown by a boy or girl not more than twenty years of age, $50.00.

For the second best acre of corn grown by a boy or girl not more than twenty years of age, $25.00.

For the third best acre of corn twenty years of age, $15.00.

For the fourth best acre of corn grown by a boy or girl not more than twenty years of age, $10.00.

The contest is to be open to all residents of Clearfield county within the age named.

Contestants must register with the bank either in person or by letter not later than May 15, 1914. When and as contestants register the rules governing the contest will be made known to them.

The prizes will be awarded by 3 practical farmers, who shall be named as judges by the committee of the bank's directors, which has the matter in charge.

Your Gardener

To produce the best results should be supplied with good tools. It matters not how good the seed may be if he does not thoroughly cultivate the soil you are "throwing good money to the birds." We have a line of

Garden Tools

All moderately priced and hard to beat. Shovels, hoes, spading forks, rakes, trowels, weeders, hand plows, barrows, mattocks, watering cans, pruning shears, etc.

And remember too that gardens and chickens do not mix well, i. e., not well for the garden. So if you expect to get any "garden sass" it would be gaining a strategic point to throw a peaceable blockade around the chickens just now—and we have the material with which to do it—

Poultry Netting

Galvanized after weaving in both one and two inch mesh from one to six feet high. Cambria and Youngtown Poultry Fence, thirty-four to fifty-eight inches high. For the farm, barbed and smooth wire, hog and cattle woven fence.

COL. ROOSEVELT TELLS HOW HE SHOT HIS FIRST JAGUAR

Story of Thrilling Hunt For the King of Beasts of South America.

Fierce Cat Bigger Than the Cougar Was Trapped In Jungle Treetop.

From Colonel Roosevelt's second article describing his journey in the Brazilian wilderness in Scribner's Magazine for May, 1914. Copyright, 1914, by Charles Scribner's Sons.

THEODORE ROOSEVELT in the May number of Scribner's Magazine describes the second stage of his journey as "A Hunter-Naturalist in the Brazilian Wilderness." This was a side trip which he took up a little branch of the Paraguay called the Taquary, where his party visited a great modern ranch, grazing 30,000 cattle, and made it a point of departure for a jaguar hunt.

The jaguar is the fiercest beast in South America, much larger than our panther, or cougar. He describes its pursuit with dogs through marshes and into the jungle. Incident to the hunt is a very pleasant picture of the journey up a very beautiful river and of the native cowboys and hunters. No feature of this new and strange country is overlooked. The hunt was full of hard work and adventure, but the colonel and his son Kermit each got a very fine specimen of the jaguar.

Nicknamed by Kermit.

Colonel Roosevelt and Kermit named one of the native hunters in Brazil who accompanied them on the jaguar hunt after Nips, the monkey in the "Swiss Family Robinson," who always tested out doubtful food. This particular native was always chosen by his associates to try out the dangerous boggy places on the trail. Therefore he became Nips to the rest of the party.

Colonel Roosevelt in describing the killing of his first jaguar says:

"The pace quickened, the motley pack burst into yelling and howling, and then a sudden quickening of the note showed that the game had either climbed a tree or turned to bay in a thicket. The former proved to be the case. The dogs had entered a patch of friends. They were biggish, nondescript animals, obviously good fighters, and they speedily developed the utmost affection for all the members of the expedition, but especially for Kermit, who took care of them. One we named Shenzi, the name given the wild bush natives by the Swahili, the semicivilized African porters. He was good natured, rough and stupid; hence his name. The other was called by a native name, Triqueiro. The chance now came to try them.

Toothless Mouthed Beast

"We were steaming between long stretches of coarse grass about three feet high when we spied from the deck a black object very conspicuous against the vivid green. It was a giant anteater, or Tamandua bandeira, one of the most extraordinary creatures of the latter day world."

Colonel Roosevelt says of the anteater that it is about the size of a rather small black bear. It has a very long, narrow, toothless snout, with a tongue it can project a couple of feet. It is covered with coarse black hair

"Several of our companions had had dogs killed by these anteaters, and we came across one man with a very ugly

scar down his back where he had been hit by one which charged him when he came up to kill it at close quarters."

An Enchanted Forest.

Colonel Roosevelt gives a vivid picture of the Brazilian jungle. He says in the course of this part of his narrative: "For miles we rode through a beautiful open forest of tall, slender caranda palms, with other trees scattered among them. Green parakeets with black heads chattered as they flew; noisy green and red parrots climbed among the palms, and huge macaws, some entirely blue, others almost entirely red, screamed loudly as they perched in the trees or took wing at our approach. If one was wounded its cries kept its companions circling around overhead."

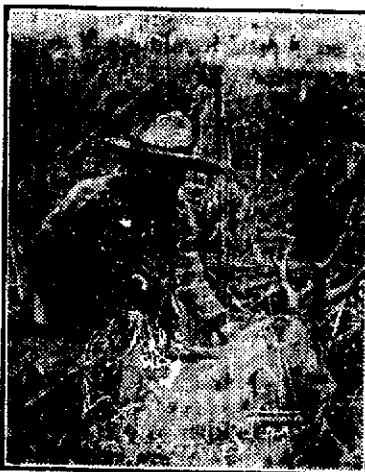

"The naturalists found the bird fauna totally different from that which they had been collecting in the hill country near Corumba, seventy or eighty miles distant, and birds swarmed, both species and individuals. South America has the most extensive and most varied avifauna of all the continents."

"On the other hand, its mammalian fauna, although very interesting, is rather poor in number of species and individuals and in the size of the beasts. It possesses more mammals that are unique and distinctive in type than does any other continent save

Australia, and they are of higher and much more varied types than in Australia. But there is nothing approaching the majesty, beauty and swarming mass of the mammalian life of Africa and, in a less degree, of tropical Asia. Indeed, it does not even approach the mammalian life of North America and northern Eurasia, poor though this is compared with the seething vitality of tropical life in the old world."

Mystery of Vanished Beasts.

"Until a geologically recent period," continues Colonel Roosevelt, "a period extending into that which saw man spread over the world in substantially the physical and cultural stage of many existing savages, South America possessed a varied and striking fauna of enormous beasts—saber tooth tigers, enormous lions, mastodons, horses of many kinds, camel-like pachyderms,

Nips with the Marsh Deer.

(From a photograph by Kermit Roosevelt.)

giant ground sloths, mylodons the size of the rhinoceros, and many, many other strange and wonderful creatures. From some cause, concerning the nature of which we cannot at present even hazard a guess, this vast and giant fauna vanished completely, the tremendous catastrophe (the duration of which is unknown) not being consummated until within a few thousand or a few score thousand years."

HELP SAVE THE

Republican Party

BY VOTING FOR

J. Benjamin Dimmick

CANDIDATE FOR

Republican Nomination for U. S. Senator

AT THE

Primaries, Tuesday, May 19th.

Why I Entered This Fight

I recognize that the disastrous split in the Republican Party was the result of a Political System, known over the whole country as Penroseism.

I am convinced that the Republican Party can and should be reunited.

But Senator Boies Penrose—The Man Who Wrecked The Republican Party—should not and will not be trusted to reconstruct it!

I believe the people of Pennsylvania will support a Real Republican who is opposed to Penroseism.

I believe in the Great Republican Principles—the principles that have been the basis of Republican success in the past.

I am a Real Republican! I believe all the best features of the new progressive spirit ought to be incorporated in the Republican Party, and I offer my services to bring about this condition.

A Vote for Dimmick May 19, is a Vote Against Penrose and Boss Rule of tall tree jungle, and as we centered through the marsh we saw the jaguar high up among the forked limbs of a taruman tree. It was a beautiful picture—the spotted coat of a big, lithe, formidable cat fairly shone as it snarled defiance at the pack below.

Fired at Seventy Yard Range.

"I did not trust the pack. The dogs were not staunch, and if the jaguar came down and started I feared we might lose it. So I fired at once from a distance of seventy yards. I was using my favorite rifle, the little Springfield with which I have killed most kinds of African game, from the lion and elephant down. The bullets were the sharp, pointed kind, with the end of a lead.

"At the shot the jaguar fell like a sack of sand through the branches, and, although it staggered to its feet, it went but a score of yards before it sank down, and when I came up it was dead under the palms, with three or four of the bolder dogs riving at it.

"The jaguar is the king of South American game, ranking on an equality with the noblest beasts of the chase of North America, and behind only the huge and fierce creatures which stand at the head of the big game of Africa and Asia. This one was an adult female. It was heavier and more powerful than a full grown male cougar or African panther or leopard. It was a big, powerfully built creature, giving the same effect of strength that a tiger or lion does and that the little leopards and pumas do not.

Found Jaguar Good Eating.

"Its flesh, by the way, proved good eating when we had it for supper, although it was not cooked in the way it ought to have been. I tried it because I had found cougars such good eating. I have always regretted that in Africa I did not try lion's flesh, which I am sure must be excellent."

Writing of a great anteater in his collection, Colonel Roosevelt says:

"We secured a more interesting creature than the jacares. Kermit had charge of two hounds, which we owed to the courtesy of one of our Argentine gave for a couple of white stripes. It has a long bushy tail and very powerful claws on its fore feet. It walks on the sides of its fore feet, with these claws curved in under the foot. The claws are used in digging out ant hills.

Amazon jungle native killing game with poisoned dart in blowgun.

Fights With Its Long Faws.

"But the beast has courage," he continues, "and in a grapple is a rather unpleasant enemy in spite of its toothless mouth, for it can strike a formidable blow with these claws. It sometimes hugs a foe, gripping him tight, but its ordinary method of defending itself is to strike with its long, stout, curved claws, which, driven by its muscular forearm, can rip open man or beast."

Chicago Man Named
Civil Governor of Vera

Robert J. Kerr, appointed by Admiral Fletcher to the post of civil governor of Vera Cruz, has plunged into his new duties with ardor, according to a cablegram received in Chicago by his father, Samuel Kerr. Mr. Kerr's first work will be the bettering of sanitary conditions, especially in the prisons and dungeons of Vera Cruz, in which are confined numbers of prisoners. Some of the prisoners have been released, and others are being transferred to better quarters. The city officers at present holding office will not be changed, and Mexicans and Americans will be on the same footing under the municipal administration.

STRIKERS REFUSE TO LAY DOWN THEIR ARMS

Colorado Quiet as Leaders
Plan the Next Move.

Trinidad, Colo., May 2.—The United States cavalrymen sent to restore order in the southern Colorado coal fields encountered their first serious complication following the announcement of Major W. A. Holbrook that he would demand that mine guards remain strictly on the mine properties and that the strikers stay away from these properties.

As a result the strikers declare they were seriously considering a refusal to disarm at the behest of the regulars.

Major Holbrook's announcement is construed by them as meaning that he would ask the miners to surrender their weapons, while allowing the guards to retain theirs as long as they stay on mining property.

Inasmuch as the strikers contend that the attitude of the guards and their possession of weapons while the strikers had none caused the entire trouble in Colorado, they threaten to ignore the order.

A meeting held at San Rafael strikers' camp, just outside Trinidad, was attended by H. N. Hawkins, miners' attorney, and all the strike leaders of the district to discuss whether the men shall surrender their arms. If necessary, it is said, a protest would be made to the federal authorities at Washington against the disarming of one side in the bitter controversy without disarming the other.

Stricken southern Colorado is hopeful that the end of blood letting is near. Peace reigned over the coal district as the regular troops went about their work of pacification with orderly precision.

Would Repeal Rockefeller Charter.

Washington, May 2.—A bill to repeal the charter granted the Rockefeller general educational board was introduced in the senate by Senator Kenyon of Iowa. He said that he thought the funds spent in maintaining it were wrong from the underpaid miners of the Colorado district.

TWO SOLDIERS DROWNED.

Launch Loaded With Mine Planting Equipment Swamped.

Fort Stevens, Ore., May 2.—A launch loaded with mine planting equipment and manned by five soldiers was swamped in a heavy sea at the mouth of the Columbia river. Corporal Klempke and Private Price of the Thirty-fourth company, Coast artillery, were drowned.

The other three were saved.

Playing the Piano.

Millions of people play the piano. Few people listen to them. Why is that? Let us remind you of a little story. One summer Joseph Jefferson, the dearly beloved old actor, spent a part of his holiday near a lonely little village. Early on Sunday morning he met the clergyman of the place. Church and stage instantly became friendly and Jefferson was asked whether he would care to read a part of the service. He consented to read the Lord's Prayer. After the service the white haired clergyman shook his hand. Tears were in his eyes as he said, "Ah, Mr. Jefferson, you ought to have entered the church." "Why?" asked the great actor. "Because what you read sinks into the hearts of your hearers. I thought I had never heard the Lord's Prayer before, you read it so beautifully." "Well," said the modest old actor, "you know, don't you, that hardly one person in a million is ever rightly taught to read."

Similarly, few people are ever rightly taught to play. That is why, perhaps, so few care to listen to the average player.—Woman's World.

STATE COMMENCEMENT

Gov. Tener Secured to Address the Graduating Class.

Preparations are nearly completed for one of the most elaborate commencement weeks ever held at Penn State college. The alumni headquarters during the week will be under a huge canvass tent on the campus. Vigorous efforts are being made to have more of the old "grads" back.

Gov. John K. Tener has been engaged to deliver the address to the graduating class. The baccalaureate sermon will be preached by the Rev. N. B. Jennings, of Philadelphia, on June 7. Special features of the week will be dedication of the new horticulture building and a dedicatory organ recital, the organ being the gift of the present graduating class.

This year the committee plans to tender the class of 1864 a public welcome that will eclipse anything of its kind ever held.

APPEALS FOR HEART BALM

Alleged Faithless Lover Sued For Breach of Promise

BERTHA KYLER THE PLAINTIFF

Everett Gulich, of Altoona, the man who will have to answer to the charge of having toyed with the affections of the Clearfield maiden.

Bertha Kyler, of Clearfield, through her attorney Thursday filed a breach of promise suit in the prothonotary's office in Blair county, against E. B. Gulich, to recover damages to the amount of $10,000.

The plaintiff in her statement sets forth that in 1908 she was a single woman of marriageable age and capable of contracting to marry; that said E. B. Gulich was then a single man and capable of contracting to marry. That some time prior to the year aforesaid, the plaintiff and the defendant became acquainted and defendant sought to keep company of the plaintiff; that in pursuance of their mutual affection for each other, in the year 1908, the defendant proposed marriage to the plaintiff and was accepted by her and a contract to marry was entered into by said parties in the county of Clearfield, Pennsylvania.

He Married Another.

The plaintiff further avers the contract to marry was frequently renewed and repeated and their vows mutually pledged to each other from time to time until the year 1913 and said contract to marry was evidenced and bound by gifts; that in the year 1913, the said defendant repudiating his promise of marriage, entered into marriage with another woman. That by reason of the breach, the plaintiff has suffered large and substantial damages in money, her feelings injured and she has been humiliated before her neighbors, friends and acquaintances, therefore she brings the suit to recover the damages which she has received.

A Resident of Shawville.

The above rather interesting information is taken from the Altoona Tribune of Friday. Miss Kyler, the fair prosecutor in the above case, is the daughter of Ellis Kyler, who resides in Shawville. Miss Kyler spent the past winter in Canada.

The trial of the case and its probable result, will be awaited with considerable interest, not to say curiosity, by her Clearfield friends. Mr. Gulich is a resident of Altoona, and is reported to be quite wealthy. At one time, it is alleged by the plaintiff, he was very attentive to her and paid her frequent visits at her home.

Indulge in a Prank That May Get Them Into Trouble.

The Freshman class of the High school held a class party in the High school building Friday evening, but the pleasure of the event was seriously interfered with by the members of the Sophomore class. In order to spoil the pleasure of the party the Sophomores issued circulars purporting to come from the Freshman class announcing that the Freshmen would entertain all school children with a musical program and serve them with refreshments.

The Freshmen gathered in the building but were unable to enjoy the party as the crowd the Sophomores had invited persisted in entering the building. Finally the children, discovering that there was no treat for them, went home. The Sophomores had resigned the floor, so that the Freshmen were unable to dance, but they enjoyed a social chat for several hours.

It is understood that the faculty will investigate the matter and that the Sophomores will be hauled over the coals for their ungentlemanly conduct.

Saturday Half Holiday.

The Saturday half holiday went into effect in the court house today. Some of the officials will remain in the offices all day but the employees will take a rest.

The Weather.

Fair and warmer, moderate north to west winds.

LINER SIBERIA HAS FOUNDERED

Fears For Safety of The Pacific Mail Steamship

HAD 800 CABIN PASSENGERS

Pirates May Have Attacked Her. "S O S" Signals of Steamship Picked Up by a Japanese Cruiser and by Great Northern Liner Minnesota. Scene of the Stranding About Six Miles Off the Coast of Formosa.

Tokyo, May 2.—Grave fears are felt for the Pacific Mail steamship Siberia, which, according to one report, has foundered off the island of Formosa.

The first information received here said that the Siberia was aground. She had been sending out distress signals. The Siberia's wireless calls were picked up by a United States warship, a Japanese and a British cruiser. The signals were so indistinct that the exact location of the distressed steamship was made out with difficulty.

From the computations and judging from the position she ought to be in the Siberia when first heard from was in latitude 22.40, longitude 121.10. This is to the east of the island of Formosa and about six miles off Taio.

The Siberia has seventy-one first class passengers, fifty in the second cabin and 400 in the steerage. She carries a crew of 282 men. Among the passengers is Mrs. Francis Burton Harrison, wife of the governor general of the Philippines.

As soon as the signals of distress were received the warships went after the distressed vessel. The fact that the wireless signals ceased altogether gave rise to fears that she had foundered.

According to one report, Chinese pirates might have been concerned in the disaster that overcame the big liner. The coast off which she met with the misfortune is a dangerous one, and the natives are hostile.

The following dispatch was made public by the Japanese navy department:

"The governor general of Formosa cables that a Japanese cruiser, on her way to the Okinawa Islands, off the island of Kishibu, reports that the Pacific Mail steamer Siberia met disaster this morning in longitude 121.10 east, latitude 22.40 north. She sent repeated signals of distress, which finally became indistinct. No details of the disaster are known. The Kanto Maru has been ordered to the scene."

Mrs. Harrison was on her way back to Manila. She had come as far as Japan with her father, who had been visiting Governor Harrison in the Philippines. Mrs. Harrison boarded the steamship at Yokohama.

On her way out the Siberia makes the run direct from Nagasaki to Manila. This course takes her to the eastward of the island of Formosa. On her return she goes by way of Hongkong and Shanghai. This course takes her through the Formosa strait, to the westward of the island.

It was reported, but unconfirmed, that a message from Captain Zeeder of the Siberia had been received at Taiofu, Formosa, reporting that the vessel had been beached on an island but a short distance from the mainland. This message did not mention any immediate danger to passengers, it is declared.

WILL NOT STRIKE

Pennsy Employees at Altoona Will Remain at Work.

At noon Thursday representatives of the Brotherhood of Federated Railway Employees appeared at the various shop gates of the Pennsylvania Railroad company at Altoona, and made speeches to the men, declaring a strike was in force and urged them to join. Their efforts proved a failure and at 1 o'clock, after the men returned to work, they retired without securing a single man to strike.

In a statement made by General Superintendent G. W. Creighton he denied the allegations made by officers of the Federated Union that General Manager Long had made concessions to them and declared the company intended to deal with employees having grievances in the same manner as had been their custom in the past.

Improving His Premises.

Contractor Ferguson has just completed the construction of a concrete sidewalk and guard wall in front of A. J. Musser's property on Pine street. Mr. Musser is also having his house painted, setting an example to other property owners on the street.

HOPE OF PEACE RAPIDLY DYING

Rush to Make Big Fund Available For Immediate Use.

AWAITING CARRANZA'S REPLY

Said to Be Flat Refusal to Stop War on Huerta—A. B. C. Envoys Continue Conference, but Refuse to Make Public Result of Negotiations—Refugees Safe.

Washington, May 2.—Thirty-six American refugees were released yesterday from quarantine near New Orleans, and 700 more expect to be set free from the detention camp to their homes within forty-eight hours.

Almost the last of the American sailors at Vera Cruz returned to their vessels, leaving General Funston and the army in complete control. Mexicans say they are enjoying unprecedented prosperity and liberty under the American regime.

The A. B. C. peace envoys continued their conferences. They now face the probability of being forced to eliminate General Carranza as a factor in the mediation, as his only reply to their request for an armistice has been to order his field generals to hurry the attack upon Saltillo.

General Villa is preparing to throw 15,000 men against the federalists at Saltillo within a few days. Fighting is also continuing at Tampico, Mazatlan and Acapulco.

A joint resolution has been introduced in the house at President Wilson's request, making immediately available the $101,000,000 provided for in the army appropriation bill.

Three trainloads of American refugees from Mexico City were reported safe a few hours' ride from Puerto Mexico.

Permanent Peace Not Expected.

That permanent peace with Mexico is not expected to result from the present mediation negotiations was indicated by the request that the appropriations be made immediately available.

The bill now in the hands of the president carries appropriations available after June 1. A joint resolution has been introduced by Representative Chairman Hay of the house military affairs committee making the money immediately available.

A similar rider is expected to be attached to the naval appropriation bill now under consideration in congress. This action is in line with all the precautions that are being taken by this government.

Nothing is to be left undone to have the armed forces in a state of complete preparedness if the mediators finally report they cannot bring about an agreement.

It is admitted that were the only questions in dispute those between the United States and Huerta at the time the big battleship fleet was ordered south a speedy settlement could be reached. Huerta has made it plain in unofficial negotiations with representatives of the envoys that he is willing to salute the flag unconditionally if the United States forces are withdrawn from Vera Cruz. He has been told, however, that things have gone too far for that and that now the United States insists he must eliminate himself.

The mediators were waiting for Carranza's complete reply to their request that he agree to a cessation of hostilities pending negotiations on a broad plane to settle all of Mexico's troubles.

Carranza's Reply Flat Refusal.

This answer is understood unofficially to be a flat refusal, but the mediators are hopeful that Carranza may outline some conditions which they can seize on to reopen the matter.

They were in a long session discussing this point, but no information was forthcoming regarding the outcome. During the negotiations the mediators sent for Secretary Bryan and told him that Huerta had agreed to a cessation of all hostilities between his forces and those of the United States pending the outcome of the mediation negotiations. Bryan repeated his former assurances that the United States took it for granted that there would be no hostilities during the period, but would go no further.

He refused point blank to comment on the attitude of the Constitutionalists or to indicate whether he believed their refusal to cease fighting would seriously menace the peace prospect. I dissenting, however, that he did not look for very speedy action was his reply to a question whether he has now definitely abandoned his proposed vacation trip to Florida. He said: "Oh, that is all off. I am now hoping that I may be able to get away for a few days late in the summer."

Candidate for Judge.

Clement Dale, Esq., of Bellefonte, well known in Clearfield, has announced his candidacy for judge of the Center county courts. The election will be held next year.

PRISONERS, FREE, MAY FIGHT U. S.

Huerta In Person Opens Jail Doors In Mexico City.

FREE LIQUOR NERVES MEN.

No Word From Physician, Friend of Bryan, Held as Spy by Dictator. Reports That Subjects Are Gradually Turning Against the Dictator—Said to Be Ready For Flight.

Vera Cruz, May 2.—In a desperate effort to unite all political factions and organize his defenses to resist the United States, Dictator Huerta has released all political prisoners in the City of Mexico, according to advices received here. The men set at liberty include several congressmen who opposed the dictator.

Huerta addressed the prisoners in person, according to the reports here, declaring, "We are now brothers, facing the common enemy, the American invaders."

At the conclusion of Huerta's speech the freed men were furnished with funds and sent to all parts of Mexico to spread the propaganda of the dictator.

Huerta has seized the saloons in the capital in order that he may furnish his soldiers with a liberal supply of liquor in the hope of keeping them loyal to him, according to a message received by the captain of the French cruiser Conde. Earlier reports that the people of the capital were turning against the dictator are also borne out in this message, which declares Huerta is believed to have made all arrangements for flight in case of an outbreak.

SUBSCRIPTIONS ASKED

Cards Sent Out Requesting Money for Hospital.

On Monday next subscription cards will be sent out throughout town and county asking the charitable citizens to subscribe to a fund for paying off the hospital debt. There remains about $6,000 yet to be collected. When this amount is collected A. W. Lee will place at the disposal of the directors $5,000 a year for five years, to be used in their judgment to meet the most required needs of the hospital.

This is a splendid offer and will be a boon to the hospital. All that is asked in return for this gift is that the charitable people will pay off the debt of the institution. It is hoped that everyone will respond promptly with these cards, and thus relieve the Board of a great deal of work.

The payment of this debt will insure us the blessing of a hospital for years to come.

PASTOR FOR BIGLER

Successor to Rev. E. L. Kennedy Has Been Secured.

Rev. Dr. E. C. Reeve has returned from Princeton university, where he had spent several days in search of a minister to fill the vacancy in the Bigler charge. Dr. Reeve finally found in Rev. J. A. Oldland the man whom the doctor thinks will fill the bill satisfactorily.

Rev. Oldland will take charge of his new field May 24. His field embraces Boardman, Bigler, Pine Grove and Bethel.

CARRANZA TIES UP PEACE PLANS

The Rebel Chieftain Prepares to Attack Huerta's Forces

IS MARCHING ON SALTILLO

Neither Villa Nor Carranza is Paying Any Attention to Request That Hostilities Cease While Negotiations Looking to Ending Mexico's Troubles Are in Progress—Dr. Ryan Freed.

Washington, May 2.—The state department and the A. B. C. mediators have been officially informed that the Constitutionalists, instead of agreeing to rest on their arms, pending negotiations, are marching on Tampico with artillery, and are about to begin an active campaign against territory still under control of Huerta from Monterey to Mexico City. The first point of attack will be Saltillo, where Huerta is massing troops. This appears to be Carranza's dramatic reply to the request that he agree to mediation for the pacification of Mexico. The result is that the progress of efforts to obtain peace being made by the A. B. C. mediators has been abruptly arrested.

Bryan Not Discouraged.

The state department, however, is not discouraged, and the belief is hourly becoming stronger that President Wilson will not order General Funston to advance against Mexico City, that he will place no time limit either on Huerta or mediation, and that he will let watchful waiting be continued till one of the warring factions quits from sheer fatigue of fighting.

Administration officials have seized upon the refusal of Carranza to agree to an armistice as a possible solution of the problem. They are quietly sitting on the fence watching the Villa movement of his troops toward Mexico City, and devoutly hoping he will crush Huerta, and the Wilson administration's controversy with Huerta at one and the same time. In this event Wilson's Mexican difficulties will vanish in thin air.

Gen. Maas Halted.

Mexico City, May 2.—The work of the mediators has had one practical result, namely, the understanding by the American and Mexican governments for a suspension of hostilities during the negotiations. As a result the column under General Maas has not been ordered to start any movement. This column is at Saltillo, where Maas has been reinforced by volunteers. He had notified the war department that he would occupy and hold some point on American territory, until Vera Cruz was evacuated, but this movement will now be postponed indefinitely.

The council of ministers yesterday discussed the question of sending to Washington a diplomatic mission whose duty it will be to give the mediators information as will enable them to base their decision on a full knowledge of the facts. It is probable this commission will be headed by Senator Ruiz, who conducted the negotiations growing out of the Tampico incident.

Dr. Ryan Released.

Vera Cruz, May 2.—It is officially announced from the federal government at Mexico City that Dr. Edward Ryan, of Scranton, Penna., who was reported under sentence of death as a spy in Zacatecas, has been released and is now on the way to Mexico City. Huerta, it was officially stated, has agreed to insure him safe passage to Vera Cruz. This is the result of a very urgent telegram sent direct to Huerta Thursday evening by Consul Canada, setting forth the facts and assuring Huerta an investigation would prove the American innocent of the charge brought against him.

The Circus is Coming.

Clearfield will have a three-ring circus on Friday, May 15, when Jones Bros. and Wilson's trained animals show will be here.

Arm Cut Off by Engine.

Daniel Bryan, a B. R. P. hostler, at DuBois, lost an arm Friday by being thrown under an engine in the yards in that place.

DUBOIS SHOWS LARGE GAINS

The Population Has Increased by 1,384 Since 1910

ESTIMATE OF CENSUS BUREAU

Pennsylvania Residents Now Number 2,248,967. An increase of 555,856—Altoona and Johnstown Cities With Remarkable Rapidly Rising Steel Town on the Conemaugh River Far in Lead.

Pennsylvania's population, it is estimated by the census bureau, will reach 3,245,967 in July this year, an increase in four years of 555,856. The census of the state in 1910 was 1,665,111.

Pennsylvania ranks second in population and holds this place in its increase in four years.

New York, the largest state in the Union in population, had 9,124,000 persons in 1910, as against an estimated population of 9,595,700 this year, or an increase of 755,167.

DuBois Takes Big Jump.

Among the cities of more than 5,000 population which have shown satisfactory increases of population since the census of 1910 is DuBois.

In 1910 the population of DuBois was 12,623. The census bureau estimates the population of DuBois in 1914 to be 14,007, an increase of 1,384 in the past three years.

The increases in other cities in this part of the state are: Altoona, 4,428.

Johnstown, 9,166.

Williamsport, 13,221.

The gain in DuBois is 63 greater than in Williamsport.

The population of Clearfield, according to the 1910 census, was 6,000, and it is believed that at present the population exceeds 8,000.

MISS SHIELDS SANG

Enlivened the Morris Township N. S. Commencement.

Miss Bertha Shields, of Clearfield, sang several solos at the Morris township High school commencement at Morrisdale Thursday. She was accompanied by Miss Elizabeth Pilkington, of Curwensville.

During the exercises Prof. and Mrs. W. W. Eisenhart, were presented with pretty fraternity pins by the High school class. Prof. Eisenhart is a candidate for county superintendent.

Bid on State Road.

B. H. Coryell, a Williamsport paving contractor, was in town today and looked over the ground on South Second street, which will be paved by the state and borough this year. Mr. Coryell will bid on the work, and on that which will be done by Curwensville also. The Clearfield bids will go to the state highway department next Tuesday.

Selfishness of Autoists.

A gentleman who had business in Hyde City walked up to that place and returned yesterday. He says he was passed by three automobiles with plenty of room for a passenger, but none of the motorists invited him to ride. Such selfishness sure is enough to cause one's corns to ache.

Who Interfered?

County Commissioner M. Richards refused to hand out ten cents to "save the life" of a habitual lunatic yesterday, and is now wondering whether some other person went to the fellow's rescue or whether the bum was only pretending to be on the verge of dissolution.

Candidate Withdraws.

Rev. John Hewitt, of Bellefonte, who had announced his candidacy for congress on the Democratic ticket in this district, has withdrawn from the race.

Hobson at Patton.

Captain Richmond P. Hobson of Star rimac and Kistmeyer fame, will deliver a lecture in the Methodist church at Patton on Saturday night, May 9.

W. C. Pentz, Esq., of DuBois, came over the hill to inhale the wholesome air of Clearfield yesterday.

WHY?

Why isn't the street sprinkler used on the pavements?

Good evening! Certainly you remember when the Queen of the May ruled her subjects, but that was before part of the North pole was moved in this direction.

THE CIVIC CLUB.

Clearfield owes much to the ladies comprising the Civic club, and there is no one who underestimates the importance of the organization in the material life of the town. In the first place, it must be known that the Civic club is self-supporting, and all the work the club has done toward improving conditions in Clearfield has been accomplished without the assistance of the borough council or any other municipal body. Such money as the club has expended has been gathered by the ladies in holding fairs, festivals and the like.

The Civic club has charge of the lawn on the north side of the county jail and the club has greatly improved conditions in that locality. In addition to placing a flower bed in the lawn the club was instrumental in having the drinking fountain established near the bridge, a great convenience to teamsters. Some years ago the Civic club purchased a street sprinkler, and the ladies would like to know where that sprinkler is at the present time as it has not been used on the streets for a year or more. Borough council's attention is called to this failure to employ the sprinkler to lay the dust on the paved streets.

The Civic club should not only be commended for the excellent work it has done in the past, but it should be encouraged to continue its efforts to make Clearfield a clean and beautiful town. If council were to appropriate the money necessary to the performance of the work the Civic club would take good care of the parks and otherwise set an example in municipal improvement that would eventually induce the citizens to give more attention to making Clearfield a more beautiful and healthful town.

THE HOSPITAL DEBT.

Cards calling upon the citizens of Clearfield borough and Clearfield county to contribute toward the liquidation of the $11,000 debt now troubling the Clearfield hospital are being sent out. It is hoped by the board of directors of the hospital that there will be a liberal and prompt response to this appeal for funds, as the board is anxious to have the hospital debt cancelled in order that it may take advantage of the generous offer of Asbury W. Lee to donate five thousand dollars per annum for a period of five years toward the maintenance of the hospital.

It is true that Clearfield people have been asked quite frequently in the past to contribute to the support of charitable and semi-charitable institutions in town and county, but the hospital is of such great benefit to the community that when it asks the public to aid it in maintaining its high standard of efficiency the response should be generous. The hospital cares for the sick and injured of the county, and any financial embarrassment which is felt by the institution serves to lessen its usefulness. Help extended to the hospital is help given to suffering humanity.

There is a suspicion that some of the barkeepers of this town are not obeying Judge Bell's liquor selling regulations, especially that item relating to the selling of intoxicating drinks to minors.

The war in Mexico is bad enough, but it cannot touch in fierceness the battle being waged by the Democratic factions in this state.

SUNDAY SCHOOL.

Lesson V.—Second Quarter, For May 3, 1914.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, Luke xv, 11-24. Memory Verses, 17-19—Golden Text, Luke xv, 18—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

In this third part of the parable which is spoken of in verse three as "this parable," including the three stories of the lost sheep, the lost coin and the lost son, we have beautifully set forth the heart of God the Father, as no one but the Son of God could tell it out, for "no man knoweth the Son but the Father, neither knoweth any man the Father save the Son, and he to whomsoever the Son will reveal him" (Matt. xi, 27). We are told in many places of the love of the Father, as in John iii, 16, 1 John iv, 8, 16; and of the love of the Son, as in Gal. ii, 20, Eph. v, 25. The love of the Spirit is mentioned in Rom. xv, 30. The love of God and His unwillingness that any should perish are two of the great foundation truths of all Scripture, and are perhaps nowhere more simply told than in this threefold parable. Man's helplessness, his deadness and his selfishness and enmity to God are also here set forth.

It may be difficult to see quite clearly whom the elder brother represents, but we would not need to seek far or long to find some really saved people who act a good deal like the elder brother when sinners who have wandered very far away are welcomed home.

I have read a discourse upon this chapter by a great Bible student in which he thinks that both the elder brother and the ninety-nine just persons represent the angels who never sinned. There seem to me to be many difficulties in this interpretation. We are quite safe in dwelling upon the love of God in seeking and welcoming home the lost ones, and we shall understand many things better when the intelligence symbolized by the many eyes of the cherubim shall be ours.

How many seem to think that they have a right to demand of God a portion of this world's goods and to do as they please with it! Such self will is the essence of sin and shows the heart of man toward God, and yet God often permits it. Every sinner is in the far country, far away from God, without God and without hope, living unto himself, his life all dark and void and nothing glorifying to God in it (Gen. i, 2; Dan. v, 23). The ungodly are compared to dogs and swine by our Lord Himself and also by the Spirit through Peter (Matt. vii, 6; II Pet. ii, 22). The comparison would not be at all flattering to some respectable sinners, but the Bible never says nice things about the enemies of God. There are many ways of wasting one's substance, and when we read that he had spent all we think of the sick woman who spent all that she had upon physicians and was nothing bettered, but rather grew worse (Mark v, 25).

It was a good thing for this lost son that he became so desperately in want that he would fain have eaten swine's food, and it was a good thing for him that no man gave unto him. Possibly some "down and out" people might come to themselves sooner if no one helped them to be comparatively comfortable in their low down estate.

It is a great thing when one is led to see himself in his true light before God, when his heart cry is, "God be merciful to me, a sinner." It is a good experience for a saved sinner when he is led to say as Job did, "I abhor myself" (Job xiii, 6). Whatever leads us to see more of God and His goodness is a helpful experience. It was good for this man when he began to think about his father and the abundance there which he might be enjoying. It was well when he determined to return to his father; confess his sin and ask to be given a servant's place, but it was better when he actually arose and came to his father.

See the father's heart in verse 20. "When he was yet a great way off his father saw him and had compassion and ran and fell on his neck and kissed him." No upbraiding, not a word of faultfinding, just a loving welcome home and a kiss of reconciliation. Do we know God as such a Father, and are we ready to tell lost ones of such a welcome awaiting them if they will turn with true penitence to Him? The son said part only of what he had intended to say, but was not allowed to finish it. Instead of the servant's place it is the best robe, a ring on his hand, shoes on his feet and a feast of welcome, because the lost one had come home. If we really believed that there was such a reception awaiting penitent sinners, how could we help urging them to come home?

It is said that they began to be merry—salvation is only the beginning of joy that knows no end. Consider the elder brother as representing one who has from his youth known the way of life, a child of godly parents and truly saved, having at some time not definitely known to himself accepted the Lord Jesus. He never fell into bad habits, but was always known as a good sample of a consistent Christian, though by no means a happy one. He did not know his father as he might have done and had no use for returning prodigals. Did you never see such a one in the glasses or elsewhere?

Your Gardener

To produce the best results should be supplied with good tools. It matters not how good the seed may be if he does not thoroughly cultivate the soil you are "throwing good money to the birds." We have a line of

Garden Tools

All moderately priced and hard to beat. Shovels, hoes, spading forks, rakes, trowels, weeders, hand plows, barrows, mattocks, watering cans, pruning shears, etc.

And remember too that gardens and chickens do not mix well, i. e., not well for the garden. So if you expect to get any "garden sass" it would be gaining a strategic point to throw a peaceable blockade around the chickens just now—and we have the material with which to do it—

Poultry Netting

Galvanized after weaving in both one and two inch mesh from one to six feet high. Cambria and Youngtown Poultry Fence, thirty-four to fifty-eight inches high. For the farm, barbed and smooth wire, hog and cattle woven fence.

COL. ROOSEVELT TELLS HOW HE SHOT HIS FIRST JAGUAR

Story of Thrilling Hunt For the King of Beasts of South America.

Fierce Cat Bigger Than the Cougar Was Trapped In Jungle Treetop.

[From Colonel Roosevelt's second article describing his journey in the Brazilian wilderness in Scribner's Magazine for May, 1914. Copyright, 1914, by Charles Scribner's Sons.]

THEODORE ROOSEVELT in the May number of Scribner's Magazine describes the second stage of his journey as "A Hunter-Naturalist in the Brazilian Wilderness." This was a side trip which he took up a little branch of the Paraguay called the Taquary, where his party visited a great modern ranch, grazing 30,000 cattle, and made it a point of departure for a jaguar hunt.

The jaguar is the fiercest beast in South America, much larger than our panther, or cougar. He describes its pursuit with dogs through marshes and into the jungle. Incident to the hunt is a very pleasant picture of the journey up a very beautiful river and of the native cowboys and hunters. No feature of this new and strange country is overlooked. The hunt was full of hard work and adventure, but the colonel and his son Kermit each got a very fine specimen of the jaguar.

Nicknamed by Kermit.

Colonel Roosevelt and Kermit named one of the native hunters in Brazil who accompanied them on the jaguar hunt after Nips, the monkey in the "Swiss Family Robinson," who always tested out doubtful food. This particular native was always chosen by his associates to try out the dangerous boggy places on the trail. Therefore he became Nips to the rest of the party.

Colonel Roosevelt in describing the killing of his first jaguar says:

"The pace quickened, the motley pack burst into yelling and howling, and then a sudden quickening of the note showed that the game had either climbed a tree or turned to bay in a thicket. The former proved to be the case. The dogs had entered a patch of friends. They were biggish, nondescript animals, obviously good fighters, and they speedily developed the utmost affection for all the members of the expedition, but especially for Kermit, who took care of them. One we named Shenzi, the name given the wild bush natives by the Swahili, the semicivilized African porters. He was good natured, rough and stupid; hence his name. The other was called by a native name, Triqueiro. The chance now came to try them.

Toothless Mouthed Beast

"We were steaming between long stretches of coarse grass about three feet high when we spied from the deck a black object very conspicuous against the vivid green. It was a giant anteater, or Tamandua banded, one of the most extraordinary creatures of the latter day world."

Colonel Roosevelt says of the anteater that it is about the size of a rather small black bear. It has a very long, narrow, toothless snout, with a tongue it can project a couple of feet. It is covered with coarse black hair

"Several of our companions had had dogs killed by these anteaters, and we came across one man with a very ugly

Colonel Roosevelt and his entire party returning from jaguar hunt.

scar down his back where he had been hit by one which charged him when he came up to kill it at close quarters."

An Enchanted Forest.

Colonel Roosevelt gives a vivid picture of the Brazilian jungle. He says in the course of this part of his narrative: "For miles we rode through a beautiful open forest of tall, slender caranda palms, with other trees scattered among them. Green parakeets with black heads chattered as they flew; noisy green and red parrots climbed among the palms, and huge macaws, some entirely blue, others almost entirely red, screamed loudly as they perched in the trees or took wing at our approach. If one was wounded its cries kept its companions circling around overhead."

"The naturalists found the bird fauna totally different from that which they had been collecting in the hill country near Corumba, seventy or eighty miles distant, and birds swarmed, both species and individuals. South America has the most extensive and most varied avifauna of all the continents."

"On the other hand, its mammalian fauna, although very interesting, is rather poor in number of species and individuals and in the size of the beasts. It possesses more mammals that are unique and distinctive in type than does any other continent save

Australia, and they are of higher and much more varied types than in Australia. But there is nothing approaching the majesty, beauty and swarming mass of the mammalian life of Africa and, in a less degree, of tropical Asia. Indeed, it does not even approach the mammalian life of North America and northern Eurasia, poor though this is compared with the seething vitality of tropical life in the old world."

Mystery of Vanished Beasts.

"Until a geologically recent period," continues Colonel Roosevelt, "a period extending into that which saw man spread over the world in substantially the physical and cultural stage of many existing savages, South America possessed a varied and striking fauna of enormous beasts—saber tooth tigers, enormous lions, mastodons, horses of many kinds, camel-like pachyderms,

"NIPS" WITH THE MARSH DEER. (From a photograph by Kermit Roosevelt.)

giant ground sloths, mylodons the size of the rhinoceros, and many, many other strange and wonderful creatures. From some cause, concerning the nature of which we cannot at present even hazard a guess, this vast and giant fauna vanished completely, the tremendous catastrophe (the duration of which is unknown) not being consummated until within a few thousand or a few score thousand years."

gave for a couple of white stripes. It has a long bushy tail and very powerful claws on its fore feet. It walks on the sides of its fore feet, with these claws curved in under the foot. The claws are used in digging out ant hills.

Fights With Its Long Jaw.

"But the beast has courage," he continues, "and in a grapple is a rather unpleasant enemy in spite of its toothless mouth, for it can strike a formidable blow with these claws. It sometimes hugs a foe, gripping him tight, but its ordinary method of defending itself is to strike with its long, stout, curved claws, which, driven by its muscular forearm, can rip open man or beast."

Colonel Roosevelt and his first jaguar.

of tall tree jungle, and as we centered through the marsh we saw the jaguar high up among the forked limbs of a taruman tree. It was a beautiful picture—the spotted coat of a big, lithe, formidable cat fairly shone as it snarled defiance at the pack below.

Fired at Seventy Yard Range.

"I did not trust the pack. The dogs were not staunch, and if the jaguar came down and started I feared we might lose it. So I fired at once from a distance of seventy yards. I was using my favorite rifle, the little Springfield with which I have killed most kinds of African game, from the lion and elephant down. The bullets were the sharp, pointed kind, with the end of a lead.

"At the shot the jaguar fell like a sack of sand through the branches, and, although it staggered to its feet, it went but a score of yards before it sank down, and when I came up it was dead under the palms, with three or four of the bolder dogs riving at it."

The jaguar is the king of South American game, ranking on an equality with the noblest beasts of the chase of North America, and behind only the huge and fierce creatures which stand at the head of the big game of Africa and Asia. This one was an adult female. It was heavier and more powerful than a full grown male cougar or African panther or leopard. It was a big, powerfully built creature, giving the same effect of strength that a tiger or lion does and that the little leopards and pumas do not.

Found Jaguar Good Eating.

"Its flesh, by the way, proved good eating when we had it for supper, although it was not cooked in the way it ought to have been. I tried it because I had found cougars such good eating. I have always regretted that in Africa I did not try lion's flesh, which I am sure must be excellent."

Writing of a great anteater in his collection, Colonel Roosevelt says:

"We secured a more interesting creature than the jacares. Kermit had charge of two hounds, which we owed to the courtesy of one of our Argentine

HELP SAVE THE

Republican Party

BY VOTING FOR

J. Benjamin Dimmick

CANDIDATE FOR

Republican Nomination for U. S. Senator

AT THE

Primaries, Tuesday, May 19th.

Why I Entered This Fight

I recognize that the disastrous split in the Republican Party was the result of a Political System, known over the whole country as Penroseism.

I am convinced that the Republican Party can and should be reunited.

But Senator Boies Penrose—The Man Who Wrecked The Republican Party—should not and will not be trusted to reconstruct it!

I believe the people of Pennsylvania will support a Real Republican who is opposed to Penroseism.

I believe in the Great Republican Principles—the principles that have been the basis of Republican success in the past.

I am a Real Republican! I believe all the best features of the new progressive spirit ought to be incorporated in the Republican Party, and I offer my services to bring about this condition.

A Vote for Dimmick May 19, is a Vote Against Penrose and Boss Rule

ROBERT J. KERR.

Chicago Man Named
Civil Governor of Vera

Robert J. Kerr, appointed by Admiral Fletcher to the post of civil governor of Vera Cruz, has plunged into his new duties with ardor, according to a cablegram received in Chicago by his father, Samuel Kerr. Mr. Kerr's first work will be the bettering of sanitary conditions, especially in the prisons and dungeons of Vera Cruz, in which are confined numbers of prisoners. Some of the prisoners have been released, and others are being transferred to better quarters. The city officers at present holding office will not be changed, and Mexicans and Americans will be on the same footing under the municipal administration.

STRIKERS REFUSE TO LAY DOWN THEIR ARMS

Colorado Quiet as Leaders
Plan the Next Move.

Trinidad, Colo., May 2.—The United States cavalrymen sent to restore order in the southern Colorado coal fields encountered their first serious complication following the announcement of Major W. A. Holbrook that he would demand that mine guards remain strictly on the mine properties and that the strikers stay away from these properties.

As a result the strikers declare they were seriously considering a refusal to disarm at the behest of the regulars.

Major Holbrook's announcement is construed by them as meaning that he would ask the miners to surrender their weapons, while allowing the guards to retain theirs as long as they stay on mining property.

Inasmuch as the strikers contend that the attitude of the guards and their possession of weapons while the strikers had none caused the entire trouble in Colorado, they threaten to ignore the order.

A meeting held at San Rafael strikers' camp, just outside Trinidad, was attended by H. N. Hawkins, miners' attorney, and all the strike leaders of the district to discuss whether the men shall surrender their arms. If necessary, it is said, a protest would be made to the federal authorities at Washington against the disarming of one side in the bitter controversy without disarming the other.

Stricken southern Colorado is hopeful that the end of blood letting is near. Peace reigned over the coal district as the regular troops went about their work of pacification with orderly precision.

WOULD REPEAL ROCKEFELLER CHARTER.

Washington, May 2.—A bill to repeal the charter granted the Rockefeller general educational board was introduced in the senate by Senator Kenyon of Iowa. He said that he thought the funds spent in maintaining it were wrong from the unpaid miners of the Colorado district.

TWO SOLDIERS DROWNED.

Launch Loaded With Mine Planting Equipment Swamped.

Fort Stevens, Ore., May 2.—A launch loaded with mine planting equipment and manned by five soldiers was swamped in a heavy sea at the mouth of the Columbia river. Corporal Klempke and Private Price of the Thirty-fourth company, Coast artillery, were drowned.

The other three were saved.

Playing the Piano.

Millions of people play the piano. Few people listen to them. Why is that? Let us remind you of a little story. One summer Joseph Jefferson, the dearly beloved old actor, spent a part of his holiday near a lonely little village. Early on Sunday morning he met the clergyman of the place. Church and stage instantly became friendly and Jefferson was asked whether he would care to read a part of the service. He consented to read the Lord's Prayer. After the service the white haired clergyman shook his hand. Tears were in his eyes as he said, "Ah, Mr. Jefferson, you ought to have entered the church." "Why?" asked the great actor. "Because what you read sinks into the hearts of your hearers. I thought I had never heard the Lord's Prayer before, you read it so beautifully." "Well," said the modest old actor, "you know, don't you, that hardly one person in a million is ever rightly taught to read."

Similarly, few people are ever rightly taught to play. That is why, perhaps, so few care to listen to the average player.—Woman's World.

STATE COMMENCEMENT

Gov. Tener Secured to Address the Graduating Class.

Preparations are nearly completed for one of the most elaborate commencement weeks ever held at Penn State college. The alumni headquarters during the week will be under a huge canvass tent on the campus. Vigorous efforts are being made to have more of the old "grads" back.

Gov. John K. Tener has been engaged to deliver the address to the graduating class. The baccalaureate sermon will be preached by the Rev. N. B. Jennings, of Philadelphia, on June 7. Special features of the week will be dedication of the new horticulture building and a dedicatory organ recital, the organ being the gift of the present graduating class.

This year the committee plans to tender the class of 1864 a public welcome that will eclipse anything of its kind ever held.
